A maze is a path or collection of paths, typically from an entrance to a goal. The word is used to refer both to branching tour puzzles to which the solver must find a route, and to simpler non-branching ("unicursal") patterns that lead unambiguously through a convoluted path to a goal. (The term "labyrinth" is generally synonymous with "maze", but can also connote specifically a ...

Title: A Maze of Death

Often the labyrinth is purposefully engineered so that it takes a long time to get to the middle, encouraging slow, meditative contemplation while navigating many twists and turns. A maze is filled with dead ends. Often there are puzzles that help you find your way and alleviate frustration, but the idea is to get lost a few times before figuring out the terrain and finding your way.
